Re Item V

Reasoned statement with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability;
citations and explanations supporting such statement

Reference is made to the following document:

D1: WO 01/28171 A

1. Claims 1, 5, 9, 15, 20 and 21 fulfill the requirements of the PCT with respect to novelty (Article 33(2) PCT) and inventive step (Article 33(3) PCT).

1.1. The document D1 is regarded as being the closest prior art to the subject-matter of claim 1, and shows (the references in parentheses applying to this document):

a method for conditional displaying of an electronic message comprising at least one display condition for the message (p. 9, l. 31 - p. 10, l. 3) in a portable electronic device (MS 4), comprising the steps of:

- receiving (by MMSC 2) the message from an external device (multimedia message generator 1) (p. 10, l. 13-22);
- determining (by MMSC 2) the geographical position of the portable electronic device (p. 10, l. 24-30);
- determining (by MMSC 2) whether the geographical position fulfills a geographical display condition of the message (p. 10, l. 32 - p. 11, l. 2);
- displaying the message in the portable electronic device if the at least one display condition is fulfilled (p. 11, l. 11-19).

The subject-matter of claim 1 differs from this known method in that the steps of receiving the message from an external device; determining the geographical position of the portable electronic device; and determining whether the geographical position fulfills a geographical display condition of the message are performed in the portable electronic device, which is the recipient of the message.

The subject-matter of claim 1 is therefore new (Article 33(2) PCT).

1.2. The problem to be solved by the present invention may be regarded as how to improve the accuracy for conditional displaying of messages.

The solution to this problem proposed in claim 1 of the present application is considered as involving an inventive step (Article 33(3) PCT), because the problem and its solution according to the differentiating feature of the method of claim 1 are neither disclosed nor hinted at in the available prior art.

1.3. The corresponding independent claims 9 and 20 rephrase the subject matter of claim 1 in terms of device features and computer-readable instructions, respectively, and therefore also fulfill the requirements of the PCT with respect to novelty and inventive step.

1.4. The document D1 is also regarded as being the closest prior art to the subject-matter of claim 5, and shows (the references in parentheses applying to this document):

a method for forming an electronic message in an electronic device (multimedia message generator 1), comprising the steps of:

- entering said message (multimedia message);
- entering at least one display condition comprising a geographical display condition for conditionally displaying of the message (p. 9, l. 21-25);
- appending said display condition to said message (p. 9, l. 33 - p. 10, l. 3); and
- entering a receiver address to which the message should be sent (implicit in p. 9, l. 31-24: the entered receiver address is the address of MS 4).

The subject-matter of claim 5 differs from this known method in that the display condition is intended for a recipient of the message.

The subject-matter of claim 5 is therefore new (Article 33(2) PCT).

1.5. The problem to be solved by the present invention may again be regarded as how to improve the accuracy for conditional displaying of messages.

The solution to this problem proposed in claim 5 of the present application is considered as involving an inventive step (Article 33(3) PCT), because the problem and its solution according to the differentiating feature of the method of claim 1 are neither disclosed nor hinted at in the available prior art.

1.6. The corresponding independent claims 15 and 21 rephrase the subject matter of claim 5 in terms of device features and computer-readable instructions, respectively, and therefore also fulfill the requirements of the PCT with respect to novelty and inventive step.

2. Claims 2-4, 6-8, 10-14 and 16-19 are dependent on claims 1, 5, 9 and 15, respectively, and as such also meet the requirements of the PCT with respect to novelty and inventive step.
